Executive Summary

Asset Class View

Equity

- Globally inflation has fallen significantly from its peak levels but is yet to attain the target levels. Most of the major central banks, including Fed, have decided/ are expected to maintain status quo on interest rates. However, Bank of Canada and ECB have cut their policy rates by 25 bps each, with intention to boost economic activity.
- Indian GDP has shown a very promising growth in FY24 which underscores India's economic resilience amidst global economic slumber. The growth in the profitability of Indian corporates has slowed down, while capex has been on the rise. Continued participation of DII as well as retail investors in equity markets have contributed to undisturbed momentum.
- We maintain our stance of being marginal overweight on equities. The corrections, if any, can be used opportunistically to increase the allocation to equities from long term perspective.

Fixed Income and Alternates

- In the second monetary policy of the financial year 2024-25, RBI decided to keep the key policy repo rate unchanged at 6.5% along with maintaining the stance at 'withdrawal of accommodation', majorly on account of favorable inflation-growth balance. While core inflation has been softening, food inflation remains elevated. However, a forecast of above-normal southwest monsoon by IMD is expected to boost kharif production.
- The spread between yields of high quality and high yield papers have mean reverted. Hence, the investors should be selective while choosing high yielding papers to gain commensurate risk premium. Cooling off yields at the longer end of yield curve has begun to provide impetus to returns from duration strategy.
- High yielding Debt and Market neutral strategies can be considered for boosting the portfolio yields. The slightly overweight stance on gold should also be maintained as long as geopolitical uncertainties do not subside.

- The Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of RBI decided to keep the benchmark repo rate unchanged at 6.5% for the eight consecutive time & continued with its stance of 'withdrawal of accommodation'.
- CPI headline inflation softened further during March-April, though persisting food inflation pressures offset the gains of disinflation in core and deflation in the fuel groups.
- A forecast of above-normal southwest monsoon by IMD is expected to boost kharif production and also replenish reservoir levels,
- Projected CPI inflation for FY25 is 4.5% whereas Projected GDP growth for FY25 is 7.2% (previous estimation 7%).

- AA spreads & AAA spreads are seen moving slightly towards the long term average in May 2024.
- The spread between the yields of AAA and AA rated papers remains above long term average. However, investors should be mindful of the choice of AA issuers for the incremental risk as they should be sufficiently compensated.

Gold

Gold hits record high

RBI gold reserves at a continue rise

Source: Bloomberg

- Our model had generated a buy signal on 23rd June 2021, since then the returns generated in absolute terms is 46.93% as of 31st May 2024
- Protracted geopolitical uncertainty and resilient global inflationary pressures, gives gold the potential to perform well as it acts as a natural hedge during the uncertainty. However, this is subject to the level of dollar index
- The GIAC committee increased the underlying allocation to gold on 26-Sept-23 (Absolute return till 31st May 2024 is 21.57%), across its portfolios given the potential to offer returns and the resilience despite interest rates peaking out. Over the next six months, gold can be a significant performer and one should be keen on capitalizing on this potential

International Equity

International Equity Allocation in Model Portfolios

Interest Rates across economies remain elevated

- ❑ Merits of allocation to International Equities:
 - Exposure to exclusive business idea which may not be available in Domestic markets
 - Diversification benefit because of low correlation with domestic equities
 - Benefit of depreciation of INR against USD over long term
- ❑ Within international equity, we believe us is better poised for recovery compared to other advanced economies such as eurozone. Hence, we trimmed exposure from non-us advanced economies in our portfolios
